LEWIS W. HILL COMES TO TOWN

Vice President of Great Northern Railroad is in Salt Lake Today.

CAME IN WITH MR. BANCROFT.

Son of James J. Hill and President of Four Railroad Systems is Considered Chip of Old Block.

Lewis W. Hill, vice president if the Great Northern, with headquarters at St. Paul, Minn., is in this city today en route to the coast after a trip through the country. Mr. Hill is accompanied by his family and is traveling in his palatial car Great Northern A-22. His car and that of Mr. Bancroft, vice president and general manager of the Oregon and general manager of the Oregon Short Line, came in on the same train from the west. Upon reaching this city Mr. Hill and family came up town and went out on a sight-seeing tour that accupied the entire forenoon.

Mr. Hill is a son of James J. Hill an throughout his stamping grounds he is considered the second greatest railroader living; his father being the greatest. Besides being vice president of the Great Northern, the visitor is president of the following lines: M. C. Ry.; W. & S. F. Ry.; D. W. & P. Ry., and S. F. & N. Ry.; all important roads. When Mr. Hill's age is considered, (he is somewhere around 40, only) he occupies a higher position than many of the older railroad glants, When seen this afternoon Mr. Hill

When seen this afternoon Mr. Hill was out enjoying the sunshine in the Oregon Short Line yards. He was busily showing his children how to play busily showing his children how to play the game "diabolo." Between throws he talked about affairs generally. "We have been around Salt Lake and are surprised at what you have here. This is my first vacation for five years and I am going to enjoy it thoroughly. This is a good town; a great country. The way the country and railroads get along out here impresses me as much as anything. Back east things are not so favorable, as there is more or less agitation on all the time. The only purpose in it, so far as I can see, is to make agitation on all the time. The only purpose in it, so far as I can see, is to make political capital out of it. They want a railroad man to bring everything except his family before some commission or other and explain this and that and the other thing to a lot of fellows who do not understand the intricacies of reflected in

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

"Financially speaking conditions are very tight in the cast and will continue to remain so for some time yet. It is the old story of adjustment. It comes every 10 years. We are going ahead with extension building, however. Now is the time for labor and other expenses are more reasonable than they have been for some time.

"We leave for California this evening. I have just come from Butte and found that country delighted over the announcement that the Amalgamated is to open up its works.

"This country is certainly interesting from any view point and I regret my stay here will last until tonight, only. We are going to hear the organ in the tabernacle this afternoon. I have heard it is the most wonderful in the world.

"I am greatly interested in the Mormon people. We have tried to get them to colonize in our territory because we have heard such good reports of them as colonizers. We know them by reputation only, but have always heard of them as thrifty, honest and just the kind of people to open and build up new country."

This afternoon he was given a private recital at the tabernacle.

Mr. Bancroft Returns from Inspection

He was accompanied on the trip by F. H. was accompanied on the trip by F. H. Knickerbocker, his secretary. The journey was made to give Mr. Bancroft an opportunity of seeing the work done along the Salt Lake Route, especially through the Meadow valley wash, where close to a million dollars has been spent to make the line "wash-out" proof. Mrs. Bancroft, who has been in California, joined her husband when he reached the coast.

OUTLOOK ON R. G. W. Rumors That a Strike Will Be Called

On March 14. With local officials of the Rio Grande Western referring questioners to the Denver headquarters and the laborers silent; the status of the railroad-labor question is somewhat dark. The continued announcements that the company intends standing by its original announcement to abrogate its agreement with shopmen March 14 are accompanied by rumors that the men will strike if a reduction in pay or open shop are included in the company's plans.

What has become of the abrogation plans.

What has become of the abrogation of agreement with trainmen, scheduled for March? At the time the company announced it was going to go it alone with shopmen it was also announced the agreements between the company and trainmen would be nil, after March 1. That was yesterday and no one in this city knows anything about any abrogation with trainmen.

The Rio Grande's employes in and about this city profess the deepest ignorance on the subject and the local offices say they know nothing about it. The usual gangs are at work throughout the division, and not the slightest ripple of excitement can be found anywhere. No one has been notified that any change in wages, working methods or arrangements is effective if the company has abrogated its agreement with the trainmen and has done all it intends doing in so doing it was a very quiet and unnoticeable change," said an employe this morning.

March 14 is the next big date to which he railroad employes are looking. It is rumored that a new scale of wages has been laid before the shopmen for their consideration and that it is intended to put the matter to a vote. This can not be verified here. Local officials both of the railroad and unions, say they are waiting to hear from Denver. That the situation is somewhat strained and something may develop at any minute is not denied.

THESE ARE ANXIOUS DAYS.

Show Down Between Labor and Corporations May Cause Great Trouble.

Special Correspondence. Special Correspondence.

Chicago Feb. 21.—These are anxious days for the 42 railroads having terminals in Chicago and for the railroad labor organizations which have headquarters here. Both sides are nerving themselves for the contest over the wage scale which will take place this spring and which may precipitate the biggest labor war which this country has ever known. A year ago at the wage conferences held here the men wer grantd advancs in the scale amounting to $100,000,000. Since then rates have been lowered in many states and traffic has fallen off to such an example. rates have been lowered in many states and traffic has fallen off to such an extent that railway mangers declare they will be unable to continue the "prosperity" scale of wages. Labor leaders, on the other hand, declare they will fight to the last ditch rather than consent to a cent's reduction in pay. This promises some lively sessions for the wage conferences which will take place in Chicago in April. Headquarters are already being established here by the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen, and word has been sent to all the local unions to select delegates to a convention which may be held at a later date. In the meantime matters will be further complicated by the investigation into the question which will be undertaken by the interstate commerce commission, at the Mrs. Bancroft, who has been in California, joined her husband when he reached the coast.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES. Railroads Seem to Be Suffering Badly

From Lack of Business.

With the announcement that the Salt Lake Route is to cut down expenses, omes information that the Rio Grande is going to abolish small stations along the main line besides abrogating its the main line besides abrogating its shop agreements. It is said the company feels it will have to cut the wages of its telegraph operators, too. They now get from $50 to $100 and a 49 percent cut or something in that neighborhood is conten plated. Small day and night stations are to be abolished as the new nine-hour-limit-law calls for three shifts in 24 hours of continuous work. With but one shift on, one man can do nicely with the offices and shifts well arranged along the line. Woodside, Utah, now a day and night office is to be abolished and Grassy, a small station nearby, will carry the work there as a night station; Casco will go and a box car will serve in its stead; Mounds will be a day station—so it will be all along the line, wherever the same work can be done with less expenditure.

This tightening is seen on local roads but the Oregon Short Line continues to go ahead with its depot work and improvements locally. The sight of huge shovels and gangs of men breaking ground for a new depot impresses the tourist or stranger as he steps of in this city after a ride through miles of country, more or less dormant.

Another feature of the general stringency is this: Because there are thousands of freight cars standing empty and idle the per diem charge has been reduced from 50 to 25 cents per day. About nine months or a year ago enough cars could not be found day. About time months or a year ago enough cars could not be foune and every line holding or using foreign cars was charged 50 cents per day per car. This rate was considered cheap at that time, but railroads are now

SULLIVAN SEEKS CHANGE OF VENUE

Man Charged With Murder of Officer Ford Appears In Court.

ATTY. LOOFBOUROW OPPOSES

He Presents Counter Petition Signed By 26 Citizens Protesting Against The Proposed Change.

Judge Armstrong will render a de ision Wednesday morning as to wheth er or not Joe Sullivan shall have s change of venue from Salt Lake coun ty to either Summit or Tooele, Sullivan is charged with murder in the fire degree for the killing of Police Officer C. H. Ford on the night of Dec. 14 last, and is being held in the state prison awaiting trial. The case is scheduled to come up Monday, March 9. Counsel for Sullivan, Attorneys Bailey and Vickery, believe that their client cannot have a fair and impartial trial in Salt Lake county, and have asked in Salt Lake county, and have asked for a change of venue as indicated. This morning an affidavit signed by This morning an affidavit signed by Sullivan was presented to the court, the prisoner being present, asking that the case be tried in one of the other counties. The petition was backed by others, some sworn to, others not, containing in all about 50 names, stating it to be the opinion of the signers that the ends of justice would best be subserved by the case not being heard

COUNTER PETITION.

A counter-petition was peresented by District Attorney Loofbourow, signed by 26 citizens of Salt Lake City, protesting against the proposed change and occlaring it to be their opinion that defendant can be assured of receiving a fair and impartial trial in this county.

Mr. Loofbourow was very brief in stating his opposition to the movement. He said that defendant could object to any person sitting on the case who had a preconceived opinion, and unbiased jurors could be found in plenty in this county. A counter-petition was peresented biased jurors could be found in plenty in this county.

Defondant's counsel had a large number of newspaper clippings in court, taken, as they said, from two or three hundred pounds of newspapers, most of the articles being very prejudicial against their clont. Mr. Bailey asked permission to read some of the extracts, before filing them in entirety. The first one read was from the Tribune but the contents did not bear out counsel's contention as to prejudice. The comment of the paper was bear out counsel's contention as to prejudice. The comment of the paper was to the effect that Chief of Police Pitt did not believe that Sullivan fired the shot that killed Policeman Ford.
Atty. Bailey apllogized for not having more carefully collated his material, and the court said that the clippings would be gone into before a decision was rendered in the case.

SULLIVAN LOOKS BETTER. Sullivan is looking much better than when he appeared for preliminary examination. He has fieshed up considerable and the hunted, careworn look that was upon his face when he was brought from the northwest is not discernable. As he is in the state prison for safe keeping and not as a convicted criminal, he does not have to work, and that fact is doubtless responsible for his changed condition. He smiled frequently today while in court, a thing that he was not known to do during his preliminary hearing. Sullivan was not brought into the city with a chain around his legs, as when brought into ciurt to plead, some weeks ago. He was handcuffed, and when returned to prison today his right hand and the left hand of George R. Elliott were linked together. De-Sullivan is lookiig much better than R. Elliott were linked together. Deputy Joe Sharp had the prisoners in tow, while on former occasions several officers accompanied the one man.

Toward Him.

George R. Elliott, convicted Feb. 12 for burglarizing the Court saloon, was sentenced today by Judge Armstrong to serve three years in the stat prison. The penalty imposed was evidently less than expected by the defendant, as Elliott profusely thanked the court for its leniency. Elliott's counsel made a plea in behalf of their client, claiming that he had been convicted upon evidence not of the best kind. Three witnesses had sworn that when two certain shots were fired defendant was in their presence, while one witness had contradicted the three. Counsel believed that Elliott was found guilty because he did not properly account for a coat that he wore.

Mr. Loofbourow objected to a retrial of the case in an argument for lenlency on the part of the defense.
